It is not quite clear whether the czar and the kaiser are fond of each other or afraid of each other.

It is now said that Mr. McKinley will not stump the State for Hanna. But why not? He has done everything else

The spectacle of men and women starving in the "treets of New York Iwas not intended as an afterpiece to McKinley prosperity.

In connection with the bimetallic proposition the British statesmen will now display some of the deliberation which was manifested by the United States Senate toward arbitration.

Think what a country Alaska must be for women. One woman says she declined lifty offers of marriage in the first fifty miles, but she held out until she struck a man with a $50,000 income, and then she sold out.

Transactions in Wall street stocks yes terday exceeded 700,000 shares, which is the largest business for one day for several years. Wall street operators and outside investors no longer doubt that confidence has been restored, and that the promised era of prosperity is at hand.

There is a general stir among the police of all countries in Europe since the assassination of Canovas, and evidently fresh Anarchist outrages are apprehended. The policy of conspirators, it is feared, is to strike two or three blows at different points.

English investors in American securities evidently have no faith in the claim that prosperity is returning. Within the past few weeks London has unloaded thousands of shares of American stocks on the American market. The average London daily sales for some time past are estimated at 20,000 to 30,000 shares.

Populist Bowder, the make weight candidate of Mark Hanna for Congress in the Fourth Indiana district, says: "Anyone who asserts that free silver will affect our industrial situation is an economical ass." This shows that every ass knows his master's crib.

Mark Hanna, it is said, has arranged for fifty speakers of national reputation to stump Ohio for him and it is estimated that he will spend $2,000,000 in his campaign for Senator. Mark is a thorough believer in the use of boodle and if he does not win it will not be from the lack of the "long green."

Senator Teller says: "I am goirg to vote for free silver in 1900, no matter what candidate is in the field. The free silver Republicans will be with the Democrats, which means a sure victory for the white metal." That's the way to talk it. That sort of talk means victory for the cause of the people.

The assassin of Canovas seems not to have considered the question of escape, or to have made any attempt to get away from the scene of his crime. He seems simply to have been anxious to make sure of his wretched work, and then to calmly take the consequences. However much we are horrified at the murder, we must be impressed by the cool determination or recklessness of the murder.

If the Hon. Greenleaf D. Letcher in accepting the temporary chairmanship of the Democratic State convention had made a brief and flowing speech of fifteen minutes he would have captured his audience, but in making it as long as he did he, committed a grievous error which it is hoped will be of great benefit to him in his future political career, as he is a young gentleman of undoubted ability

In New York a queer feud has arisen between drivers of wagons and wheelmen, or rather, it is a one-sided feud, as the drivers seem to be doing all the offensive part of it. Almost every day the papers report cases of bicyclists being run down by wagons. Yesterday a case was

She had been chased two or three squares by a man in a light wagon, who was doing his best to run over her. A policeman finally appeared, and the driver was arrested. In many places horsemen seem to find it difficult to understand that the streets do not belong to them altogether, and they resent the appearance of wheelmen on them. But nowhere except in New York have they resorted to such ruffianly methods. It is to be hoped that they will be made to feel the hand of the law.

VIRGINIA AND HER FUTURE.

The delegates and visitors to the Dem ocratic State convention have all arrived. and it is safe to say that at least two thousand strangers are within our city. Contrary to the predictions of representatives of other communities all the delegates have been fully provided for with room to spare for the accommodation of at least a thousand more guests.

The gentlemen of Roanoke upon whom devolved the arducus task of providing ccommodations for this large accession to the regular population of the city have most acceptably fulfilled the duties of the position. Not only are they receiving unstinted praise from all classes of their fellow citizens for the thorough and efficient manner in which they discharged their duties, but even the visitors themselves cheerfully admit that the preparations for their accommodation are all that could be desired.

No cne has gone unhoused or unfed who truly desired a stopping place and was able to pay a reasonable amount for the ordinary comforts of life. All of the visitors have been met on their arrival and promptly assigned to comfortable quarters and all the arrangements of the citizens committees have proven thorough and complete.

In assuming the responsibility of inviting the Democrats of the State to hold their gubernatorial convention here, those in charge of the movement were well aware of the difficulties in the way. They bravely assumed all responsibilities in the matter, however, and have most nobly acquitted themselves. All the promises made to the State committee when the invitation was extended have been more than fulfilled, and Roanoke deserves to be congratulated on the hearty and cordial reception rendered the members of the convention.

That the gathering of Virginia Democrats in the Magic City of the Southwest will have an important bearing upon the welfare of this city and section there is every reason to believe. The interchange of opinion cannot fail to be of mutual benefit, and it is not doubted that when the delegates return to their homes it will be with a conscious ess that the men of all sections of this grand old commonwealth are equally devoted to her interests and to her honor.

Then, too, it may happen that some from other sections will conclude to cast their fortunes with the people of this part of the State, while others here may learn something of interest and value from their brothers in other localities. On the whole, such a gathering as this one cannot fall to thoroughly unite the people of all parts of the Old Dominion in a common desire to promote her welfare and Virginia in soil, climate and people is the Paradise of America, and though shorn of much of her strength and robbed of a great deal of her territory, she is still the brightest gem in the jewels of Columbia's crown, and whenever the occasion demands will prove that in men and all the essentials of true greatness she is still the first and foremost commonwealth of the great American Union.

Apparently we are behind some States in material development, but even our detractors admit that our people possess ail the elements of courage and fortitude, and if we are true to ourselves and our State the time will soor, come when Virginia will be all that this old Virginia resort. Virginia will be all in the present Union that she was in the old.

It is hoped the Democratic delegates to the convention now in session will appreciate the full measure of their duties and responsibilities, and if the course of that body is marked by wisdom and sound political judgment it will require the precience of no political prophet to foretell that a grand and glorious future is in store for our State and people.

A WARNING TO COMMON PEOPLE.

The intelligent editors of the country do not mince their words in denouncing the recent injunction issued against the workingmen and their leaders by Justice Jackson, of the United States district court, in West Virginia.

The editor of the most conservative of our exchanges, the Springfield Republican can hardly restrain itself in commenting on the enormity of Judge Jackson's order. Words are lacking to characterize it properly. "How any judge not a mere tool of some corporate interest could be guilty of making such an order passes the understanding," says our contemporary.

In truth, the order makes a crime of what is not a crime, and the judge stands ready to try the victim without a jury and to punish him in the court's discretion, which if it is as unbridled as is the judge's contempt for the rights of the people, will consign any and all men to life imprisonment.

The Republican remarks that Judge Jackson's order is as gross a usurpation of power as was ever recorded in the an nals of tyranny, and says that "the exercise of such a power constitute, a deadly blow at law and liberty and popular government."

This view we regard as too gloomy.

who chance to be clothed with authority. The judge's order, instead of being a blow at liberty, simply comes as a warn ing to the people to look after their rights and liberties before the tools of trusts have destroyed them. A thousand judicial tyrants, knaves and ignoramuses cannot take away from the people the liberties for which they shed their blood and gave their substance.

But the common people must take warning. The order of Judge Jackson' following the omnibus injunction issued at Chicago in 1894, shows what they have to expect if they continue to place in power the party which has outraged every tradition of American freedom by surrendering the government and the courts to the control of trusts and monopolies.
